

Jenny finds music is the key to happiness

Jenny Walker*, LGSM, BA (Hons), Dip Spec Ed

Ever since she was a small child, Jenny Walker has been musical. She took lessons in her home town, Southampton, and has never strayed far from the piano. Jennifer Sharon Gale, then gained a place at UCNW (University Bangor, where she followed by a year at After marrying the Didcot and Sandy teaching. At Sandy French and ICT as moved to Grantham at and for 10 years she taught ICT at the King's School until her post was made redundant.

College North Wales) at read music. This was Bretton Hall near Leeds. Michael, they moved to areas, where she took up Upper School she taught well as Music. The couple the turn of the millennium

Throughout her career there, she helped with the orchestra and choirs More recently, she spends two-and-a-half days a week as a freelance teacher at KGGS, promoting the finer points of piano playing, the rest of the week taking private tuition at home.

And she also plays the piano for fun, and occasionally at St John's Church, where she still manages to find time to sing in the choir. She is also accompanist for the Grantham Singers, The Belvoir Wassailers, and music director for Grantham Operatic Society as well as a composer for Piano Pronto, an online US publisher.